FAVORS SINGLE RELIEF CHIEF

Marshall Would Put Control of European Aid Up to One Administrator.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12—Secretary of State Marshall told house members today a "businesslike" administration of the proposed European aid program is important, and the way to get it is to put it under a single individual.

Marshall testified before the house foreign affairs committee where considerable sentiment has developed for an eight-member administrative board. Those backing this idea say it would mean a "business like" administration.

Both President Truman and Secretary Marshall want a single administrator who would be responsible to the secretary of state on matters of foreign policy.

Wants Genuine Recovery

As he did when testifying before the senate foreign relations committee last week, Marshall urged that congress authorize a European aid program adequate to provide "genuine recovery."

He said "the time for relief programs is past," and added:

"If we do not move out to meet the problem in Europe today it will certainly come to us here in the United States under conditions far more unfavorable to us."

FINDLAY LODGE HALL DESTROYED BY FIRE

By The Associated Press

FINDLAY, O., Jan. 12—Fire burned out the Moose lodge building here early today for the second time in three years.

The blaze swept through the two-story brick building, destroying the contents of the lodge hall on the second floor and those of four stores on the ground floor as well. These were a state liquor store, a wall paper store, a bicycle shop and an electrical store.

Fire Chief Raymond DeHayes estimated damage at $250,000 and expressed belief the blaze originated in the second floor lodge hall. He said the cause was undetermined.

DeHayes said the interior of the building was destroyed and reported the fire under control although firemen continued to pour water into the smoking remains six hours after discovery of the fire.

Patrolman Errald Miller discovered the blaze at 3:45 a. m. and the city's entire fire-fighting force responded. Firemen kept it from spreading to other buildings, although smoke seeped into the adjoining Red Cross headquarters.

The interior of the hall was completely rebuilt after a fire March 30, 1945, when damage was estimated at $30,000. The same stores on the first floor were burned out then.

TRAFFIC RECORD BROKEN

By The Associated Press

PAINESVILLE, O., Jan. 12—A record of 23-months without a traffic death in this city of 13,000 was broken when Helen Gill, 23, of Ashtabula, was injured fatally yesterday in an automobile which overturned.

ONE HURT IN 10 ACCIDENTS

Glendon Garry Suffers Leg Injury When Struck by Automobile.

A Marion man was hospitalized with a broken knee-cap suffered in one of ten weekend accidents reported by city police and the state highway patrol.

Glendon Garry, 21, of 1011 West Center street was taken to City hospital in the Gunder ambulance shortly after 8:40 p. m. Saturday when he stepped from behind a taxi into the path of an automobile in front of 265 Cass avenue.

The automobile was driven by Frank Campiti, 36, of 246 Elm street. Garry and a companion had just alighted from the cab and started to cross the street as the cab pulled away. Garry was treated at the hospital for a fractured left knee cap and abrasions of the forehead and nose.

Robert L. Phelps, 34, of 217 Franconia avenue, entered a plea of not guilty in municipal court this morning to a charge of driving while intoxicated after his car crashed into a parked car and overturned in front of 972 East Church street at 9:30 p. m. last night. He posted $100 bond pending hearing of his case at 3 p. m. Tuesday.

Hits Parked Car

Phelps' car, westbound in East Church street, crashed into the side of a car owner by M. W. Roush, parked at 972 East Church street. Left side of the Roush car and the front end of the Phelps car were badly damaged. Phelps escaped injury and was removed from his car by Ben Lower of 966 East Church street.

Edward W. Lash, 55, of 213 Clover avenue, reported his car sideswiped on Church street in front of the postoffice at 11:25 a. m. Saturday by a car which failed to stop after the accident. Lash was going east and the second car, later identified by police as owned by a Galion man, was westbound. Both cars were damaged.

Cars driven by Raymond McClung of near Marion and Clifford E. Thomas, 24, of 284 Clinton avenue hooked fenders in front of Alber's market in East Center street at 12:42 p. m. Saturday. McClung attempted a right turn into McWilliams court in front of the Thomas car, double parked in front of the market. Slight damage was reported.

At 12:50 p. m., a truck owned by the Warner-Wall Transfer company of Portsmouth, O., collided with a car driven by Verden Martin, 48, of 295½ North State street while the latter was waiting on East George street for the North Main street traffic light. Rear end of the latter car was damaged.

GOP CALLS IT 'EXTRAVAGANT AND POLITICAL'

Leaders Assail Budget; Democrats Say 'Reasonable,' Under Circumstances.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 — Republicans ripped into President Truman's $39,669,000,000 budget today as "extravagant" and "political," while Democrats defended it as "reasonable," considering problems at home and commitments abroad.

But even among critical Republicans there was clear indication the President's request for $11,000,000,000 for the armed forces has widespread support.

Chairman Bridges (R-NH) of the senate appropriations committee said the President had presented "an extravagant program beyond the means of the nation to meet this year."

"He has played politics in an attempt to make the budget appear an economy measure," Bridges declared in a statement. "But no politics, however stated, can avoid the fact that he is suggesting an increase in federal spending at a time when the security and well-being of the nation demand reduced expenditures."

Bridges said he regards the proposed expenditures for defense as "realistic even though the sums will appear staggering to many Americans." But he promised these items will be "reviewed most carefully."

Hopes for "Some Reduction"

Senator Lucas of Illinois, who as the Democratic whip is an assistant floor leader, said while he regrets "the necessity to have such a large budget" he is "encouraged to know that once again we can balance the budget and have a surplus to apply on the national debt." Lucas said he hopes expenditures can be cut some, without "crippling the national defense—involving our foreign policy."

Mr. Truman predicted if revenue yield is not reduced by tax cutting the surplus will be $7,728,000,000 in the year ending June 30, and suggested that it all be applied on the debt.

House Republican leaders already have scheduled passage by that body of a $5,600,000,000 tax reduction bill which would more than eat up the President's estimate of a $4,808,000,000 surplus for the year beginning July 1.

Sees Ultimate Tax Boost

Senator Brooks (R-Ill) told a reporter he thinks the $7,000,000,000 in new foreign expenditures proposed by the President can be

WOMAN IS BURNED IN GAS EXPLOSION

Electric Heater Ignites Fuel Leaking into Bathroom.

Mrs. Donald White of 472 West Center street, suffered first degree burns on her face and arms at 5:27 p. m. Saturday night when gas in the bathroom of her home exploded.

Cause of the explosion was a hot electric heater which ignited the gas-filled bathroom. The gas leaked into the room from a gas heater which was not lit.

She was taken in a Gunder ambulance to City hospital and is reported in fair condition there today.

Firemen from Central and West Side stations answered the call and were recalled at 7:12 p. m. when it was discovered that the roof above the bathroom was burning.

Fire Chief Sifritt said either the explosion had blown some fire through a crack in the bathroom ceiling, or faulty electric wiring caused the second fire. About $200 damage resulted to the bathroom in the explosion, and an estimated $1,200 loss was caused by the second fire.

Message Urges Spread of Social Security System

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12—President Truman asked congress today to broaden the social security system to provide "all citizens some protection against the major economic hazards of our society."

He estimated the additional cost at $115,000,000,000 in the 1949 fiscal year beginning next July 1.

The President included these specific proposals in his budget message:

▶Extension of old-age and survivors insurance to all gainful workers, including agricultural and domestic employes, farmers and other self-employed persons.

▶An increase in individual benefits and in the maximum amount of earnings taxable. (At present only the first $3,000 of earnings are taxable.)

▶Provision for a national system of health insurance and improved services and facilities for public health and medical care, with a ½ of 1 per cent tax on salaries up to $4,800 a year effective next Jan. 1 to start paying for it.

▶Extension of unemployment compensation coverage to employes of small businesses and as many other groups as feasible.

▶Allotment of federal grants for public assistance on the basis of financial resources and needs of each state.

Mr. Truman gave few details, saying he will discuss his social security recommendations, including temporary and permanent disability insurance benefits, in a special message to be sent to congress later.

VOTE TO CONTINUE UNION SHOP CLAUSE

AFL Local Reports Ballot Is 227 to 6.

At the first union shop election called in Marion by the National Labor Relations board under the Taft-Hartley act, employes at the Commercial Steel Casting Co. decided Thursday by a vote of 227 to 6 to continue the union shop clause in their contract, according to statement today by E. E. Crizer, secretary of Local No. 386, International Molders and Foundry Workers Union of North America, AFL, which holds a contract in this plant. He gave the explanation that "This means all employes in the bargaining unit must join and maintain membership in the union as a condition of employment."

WOULD LOWER FARM SUPPORT

President Favors Reduction on Prices but Boosts Soil Building Figure.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12—President Truman called today for a reduction in the levels at which the government supports farm prices, but recommended larger subsidies to rebuild soil worn thin by intensive wartime farming.

In his budget message to congress, the Chief Executive said the government policy of supporting farm prices, started on a broad scale to encourage large wartime output, should be continued beyond Dec. 31, when such authority expires for many products.

He said suport levels should be reduced lest they encourage overproduction of particular commodities which "sometimes can occur under conditions of full employment."

The President asked congress to appropriate about $1,093,000,000 in new funds and borrowing authority to finance agriculture department activities, some of which have no direct connection with farming. This was $70,000,000 more than congress provided this fiscal year. Actual spending for agriculture was estimated at $906,000,000.

Available In 1949

The proposed increased in farm subsidies would not become available until 1949 crop year. Congress already has appropriated $150,000,000 for the 1948 soil program.

The President said this should be increased to $300,000,000 for the 1949 crop year "to prevent a serious reduction in the fertility of our soil as a result of the high production induced by heavy foreign and domestic demands for agricultural products."

Agriculture is in the "best financial condition in history," Mr. Truman said, predicting that the government will have to spend very little this year in carrying out price guarantees. He said prices of most commodities are expected to remain above support levels.

Commodities which may have to be supported, he said, are potatoes, eggs, wool and tobacco. The government carries out price guarantees by buying price-depressing surpluses or by making loans to farmers who hold extra supplies off the market until prices improve.

SAYS WAR AND THREAT OF NEW ONE IS CAUSE

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12—President Truman fired an unprecedented peacetime budget of $39,669,000,000 at congress today to meet "the realities of our existing international and domestic requirements" during the 1949 fiscal year beginning July 1.

He told the hostile Republican congress nearly four-fifths of the spending estimate represents the aftermath of World War II and efforts to head off World War III.

Although it exceeds by $2,000,000,000 his budget request for the current year, Mr. Truman declared its preparation was governed by "rigid standards of operating economy" in the government.

"The plain fact is," he said in his accompanying message, "that our budget must remain high until we have met our international responsibilities and can see the way clear to a peaceful and prosperous world."

Cites Threat of Communism

In an obvious reference to the hoped-for effect of foreign aid in curbing the spread of communism, Mr. Truman said:

"Should failure of these programs result in a further extension of totalitarian rule, we would have to reexamine our security position and take whatever steps might be necessary under the circumstances."

Mr. Truman declared that 79 per cent of the expenditures he proposed "directly reflect the costs of war, the effects of war, and our efforts to prevent a future war."

In this class he listed the two biggest items in his budget:

$11,000,000,000 for national defense, 28 per cent of the total and $270,000,000 higher than this year;

$7,000,000,000 for foreign and other international affairs, 18 per cent of the total and up $1,590,000,000.

After allowing for veterans benefits, interest on the public debt and tax refunds, Mr. Truman said, only 21 per cent of the outlay would remain for social welfare and ordinary expenses of government.

He injected a note of optimism, however, with an estimate that "under existing tax laws" federal revenues will yield a record-breaking surplus of $7,482,000,000 this year and another of $4,808,000,000 in the following 12 months if congress adopts his fiscal plan.

Expects Near Record Income

The Chief Executive said income for the 1948 fiscal year, now half over, should reach $45,210,000,000, the highest for any year except the $46,467,000,000 received in wartime 1945.

He estimated next year's receipts at $44,477,000,000.

But Mr. Truman insisted the government should use all excess over spending to scale down the $250,000,000,000 public debt. He said the debt should be cut to $250,000,000,000 by next June 30 and to $246,200,000,000 one year later.

To do this and still leave room for the $40-per-person tax cut he suggested last week, the President reiterated his call for a suggested $3,200,000,000 hike in corporation taxes.

The new budget is based on the assumption that congress will accept a variety of other projects outlined in Mr. Truman's state of the union message which GOP leaders denounced as "Santa Claus" bidding for votes.

It includes a new program of financial aid for state school systems, health insurance, extension of social security to such groups as farmers, domestics and the self-employed, long range housing aid, and expanded flood control.

Mentioned for future consideration is a new sea level canal to connect the Atlantic and Pacific oceans.

Previous Estimates Raised

Mr. Truman's $45,210,000,000 income estimate for the current fiscal year was $3,453,000,000 higher than the one he made in August. His spending estimate of $37,728,000,000 is up $728,000,000.

He ticked off his main spend-

CATHOLICS MUST QUIT METHODIST COLLEGE

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Jan. 12—The 163 Catholic students studying for degrees at Baldwin-Wallace college must withdraw from the Methodist institution at once if they wish to conform with the doctrines of their church, a diocesan priest advised a mass meeting of the students last night.

A compulsory religion course and religious programs at the nearby Berea institution are contrary to Catholic canon law and make it "impossible for a Catholic to pursue courses leading to a degree and remain a good Catholic," Rev. Joseph T. Moriarty, professor of religion at St. John's college, told the students, who met in the auditorium of a Catholic school. Several of them, including two prominent athletes, already have withdrawn.

Issue of Long-Standing

The long-brewing issue was brought to public light recently when a Catholic student, who has since withdrawn, asked for an authoritative statement on a course, Philosophy of Religion, which is required of seniors working toward degrees.

Msgr. Vincent B. Balmat, chancellor of the Cleveland Catholic diocese, asserted in reply that Catholics "may not under any circumstances or pretext attend a class of this kind."

Dr. Louis C. Wright, president of Baldwin-Wallace, then issued a statement indicating no change in the course was contemplated.

"There has been no change in required chapel programs and courses in religion for 100 years," he added. "This is stated in the college catalogue, and each student has this information upon entering college. Chapel programs have never been sectarian."

When informed of last night's developments, Dean Myron F. Wicke commented: "There still will be no change in our program of requirements."

Speaking for Self

Father Moriarty stressed he was issuing neither an official pronouncement on the question nor speaking as a representative of Bishop Edward F. Hoban.

"There has been no Episcopal statement about any kind of excommunication and the bishop has not sent any letter to any student," he said. "The chancellor's statement is based on the code of canon law and the opinions of moral theologians. It was a statement similar to that any priest might make."

Students directed many queries on the issue in a question and answer period.

To one, Father Moriarty replied no ruling was made on the course because the chancery "had no knowledge of it until now."

"Does this mean immediate withdrawal?" asked one student.

Rev. R. C. Knuff, assistant at St. Mary's church in Berea, answered:

"As a Catholic priest, I would say you cannot continue to attend one hour without acting in bad faith and being guilty of serious sin."

Father Moriarty advised the students that local Catholic colleges and universities stood ready to accept them as transfer students, including seniors up for degrees, at the start of the new semester next month.

BURGLARS GET $75 AT KEYTOWN CAMP

Glass Removed from Door To Gain Entrance.

Burglars have struck again in the Marion area. This time the midnight visitors entered Keytown Camp, service station and motor court on state route 23, south of Marion.

Entrance was gained to the service station office by removal of the glass panel of the front door. Clyde Vance, owner and operator of the camp, placed the loot at $75, all in cash. No merchandise was missing.

The burglary which occurred sometime after midnight, was discovered by Theodore Williams, an employe of the station, when he arrived at the station to open it for business Sunday morning. The sheriff's office was notified and Sheriff Leroy Retterer reported that investigation of the premises reveals that, like the burglary of Yost restaurant last week, the thieves did a very workmanlike job. He believes the jobs were well planned in advance.

ter street from the center traffic lane. Left front end of the Patton car was damaged.

Marion P. Grover, 35, of 410 Pearl street reported damaging the left front fender of a car parked in front of 119 South Main street while backing into an adjoining parking space. The mishap occurred at 8:32 a. m. Sunday. At 12:39 a. m. Sunday, a car driven by Charles R. Terry, 32, of 436 North Greenwood street ran up over the curb and damaged the traffic light pole on the southwest corner of the intersection of West Church street and South Prospect street. The Terry car, traveling south on Prospect street, sustained damage to the front and was removed from the scene by the McDaniel wrecker.

Two traffic accidents resulting in considerable damage to vehicles involved occurred on route 42 this morning, the state highway patrol reported.

A car driven by William Sherman Bailey, 50, of Columbus, and a truck driven by Sam Serio of Cleveland collided on route 42 about two miles south of Johnsville at 7:30 a. m. damaging both vehicles. Bailey told state highway patrolmen that the truck was pulling a car from the ditch and was blocking the road when he ran into the truck.

A car driven by Gerald Stone, 23, of Mansfield, and a bakery truck driven by Frederick Dilger, 25, of Mt. Gilead, collided on route 42 in Mt. Gilead at 5:30 a. m., damaging both vehicles considerably. No one was injured.

STASSEN DEMANDS PAULEY SHOWDOWN

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12—Harold E. Stassen challenged Edwin W. Pauley's right to his job as assistant to the secretary of the army today after Pauley told of making $923,703 in commodity speculations. Stassen, candidate for the GOP presidential nomination, called on President Truman to say whether "a man who has admitted under investigation" such profits "by speculating since the war in increased prices of food and commodities" belongs in his position.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12—Whether his senate colleagues will look into the acknowledged commodity dealings of Elmer Thomas (D-Okla) today was left for the future to answer.

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich), chairman of an appropriations subcommittee investigating claims that government "insiders" have profited from market speculations, was non-committal.

Asked about Thomas' statement that he has invested in "income producing properties including bonds, preferred and common stocks and commodities" — but without any inside information—Ferguson told reporters:

"The committee has not changed the attiude that it's always had. It will go thoroughly into the whole matter."

Senator Thomas offered senate investigators the books on his commodity trading today, an official reported. Thomas' records probably will be obtained later in the day, said an official of the senate appropriations committee.

Thomas, a member of the senate since 1923 and for years chairman of the senate agriculture committee until the Republicans took control of congress last year, has not been named on any of Anderson's lists.

CRITICISM

cut, although he declined to estimate how much. As for Mr. Truman's proposal to spend nearly $2,000,000,000 more money than in the current year, Brooks said:

"Any substantial increase in the budget ultimately will increase taxes, increase the amount of money competing for consumer goods in this country, create further scarcities and boost prices."

But Senator Sparkman (D-Ala) said "I think the President has figured expenditures just about as closely as they can be trimmed."

Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the Republican whip, insisted the overall outlay "has to be cut if there is going to be any debt or tax reduction." He added, however, he would "hesitate" to reduce the proposed defense outlay.

Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo) said the Republican-controlled congress probably will cut expenditures back to about $34,000,000,000 before it is through. He said he thinks $2,000,000,000 can "come off foreign aid."

Senator Brewster (R-Maine) termed it a matter of "profound regret" that three years after the war "we are able to reduce our domestic expenditures by so small an amount."

"If we can't do it now," he inquired, "when can we do it as far as the domestic situation is concerned?"

Other comment:

Senator Dworshak (D-Idaho): "the federal government is still honeycombed with the inefficiency and extravagance so prevalent during the war years."

Senator Ives (R-NY): "The amount seems high and I hope it can be reduced without impairing the essential functions of government."

Senator Connally (D-Tex): "I don't see how we can avoid a heavy outlay for military and naval preparedness. The world is in a state of chaos and we can't afford to lay down our arms until we know where we are going."

ASK RED CROSS TO RECONSIDER OUSTER

By The Associated Press

VAN WERT, O., Jan. 12—Officers of the Van Wert chapter of the American Red Cross, which lost its charter for affiliating with the Community Chest, appealed to the national organization today to remember "the little man who makes Red Cross possible."

In a letter to Basil O'Connor, national president, the Van Wert group admitted disregarding national policy by letting the Community Chest raise its funds instead of conducting an independent drive. However, it urged making national policy adaptable to local conditions and added:

"Another criticism of your policy, and perhaps a basic one, is its total lack of consideration for the wishes, preferences or inclinations of the contributors.

"In your zeal to make Red Cross first and foremost, have you not forgotten the little man that makes Red Cross possible? If he would like to give a pink check for his contribution, he resents being told by the national office, or by anyone, that it must be a blue check, and that we want it later—instead of now. After all, the people who give the money should have some say as to the manner in which they give it.

"It is possible that we may look at the situation more objectively than yourself. While we actually raise the money, we do not have the salary or the duties that go with your office, but in all other respects we are as much interested in Red Cross as yourself, and may our motives be taken for granted."

The letter, signed by Mrs. Marcile Borden, chapter president, urged the national board of governors to reconsider the revocation at its spring meeting.

Drugs That May Aid in Treatment of Cancer

...t our present hopes for ...ure seems to center around ...t that certain chemicals ...ve the power to destroy ...ells without injuring nor... tissues.

...knew the reasons back of ... and destructive growth ...er cells—what sets them ...their outlaw career and ...maintains them in it—our ...uld be easier. But even as ...research men are making ...ss along this line.

...ently, one which seems to ...e power to restrict cancer ...as been discovered in a ... known as ethyl car... So far, its use has been ... one type of cancer and ...nts in advanced and other... ...eless stages of the dis... ...hen this drug was given ... men with cancer of the prostate gland, the growth decreased in size, the pain was relieved, and the patients felt better.

Unfortunately, however, the drug is not without its dangers. One of the patients, who received it over a period of 23 days, improved for a time, but died six days after the drug was stopped, not of cancer but of severe liver damage. Smaller doses were given the other patients without harm. However, the improvement in the cancerous conditions of such patients was not as great.

A drug of this type must be employed with great caution. The patient's condition must be checked frequently to make sure that the body tissues are not being severely damaged. This can be done by determining the number of white cells in the blood. If these drop to below 4000 per cubic millimeter of blood, or if the patient becomes nauseated or sick at his stomach, the use of the drug must be stopped.

Cancer of the prostate gland has also been treated by using glandular extracts, that is, the female sex hormone. Such treatment, while not completely satisfactory, does bring improvement in many cases. The improvement, however, is not permanent, and relapses occur within a varying period of years.

Of course, ethyl carbamate must be tested thoroughly on a larger number of patients before it can be adopted for general use. But the good results obtained with chemicals in the treatment of various types of cancer indicate that research is following what might be called a hot clue and offer hope that this condition may soon be conquered.

Questions and Answers

E. M.: Please tell me something about acne. What is the cause?

Answer: The exact cause of acne or pimples is not known, although it is likely that the condition is due, in part, to an increased activity of the sebaceous glands. In acne there is usually an infection of the hair follicles.

The treatment of acne consists in the use of astringent and antiseptic lotions containing sulphur. If the condition is severe, X-ray treatments are of value in clearing it up.

New power for your BUICK!

Today's Power, Today's Performance, Today's Zip—for Buicks up to Ten Years Old!

MAYBE this sounds too good to be true. But it's a fact!

Even if your Buick dates back as far as 1937, you can have a hoodful of factory-fresh Fireball power—a sleek new power plant that's the same as the engines going into the latest Buick cars.

Everything about it is brand-new. A new carburetor and air cleaner help make every drop of fuel give up all its power. A new distributor, complete with vacuum and centrifugal advance, puts new snap in your getaway and new pep in all driving. A whole new wiring harness prevents electrical loss. And tucked in the flywheel housing is a new smoothie of a clutch that'll make driving more fun than ever.

Yes, it's all new, with the latest Buick engine features you read about—like precision cylinder boring, Oil-Miser rings, Stratoflow cooling and so on.

You can get a new engine like this because engine production is not held back by the shortage of sheet steel which limits complete-car production.

So we're able to put one of these honeys into your car and make it young again—give it new power and performance that will get you set for thousands and thousands more carefree miles.

How much does it cost? Not nearly what you'd expect—often less than a comprehensive overhaul. And it's a mighty good investment because it makes your car worth so much more when it comes time to turn it in.

Nice proposition, isn't it? Surely worth talking over. Won't you come in and let us give you all the details?

NO EARLY PRICE RISE IN STEEL INDICATED

By The United Press

CLEVELAND, Jan. 12 — Steel prices will not increase in the immediate future despite increasing inflationary pressure, the magazine Steel said today.

Leading steel producers are expected to defer price increases until forthcoming wage negotiations are concluded, "notwithstanding higher pig iron and scrap prices and further increases in freight rates last week," Steel said.

"Meanwhile," the magazine added, "sporadic advances by smaller producers can be expected."

It said the new increase in freight rates "promises to intensify the problem for some consumers by further restricting marketing areas." Steel producers, it said, may be "disinclined to absorb freight on shipments distant from their mills."

Pig iron production continues to lag behind demand, the trade journal reported, causing a $2 to $4 per ton price increase last week "by important producing interests." It expects steel mills will soon resume buying scrap to replenish inventories depleted by curtailed shipments in some areas hit by severe weather.

Steelmaking operations have fully recovered from the holiday slump, the magazine said, with the national ingot rate of last week holding unchanged at 97 per cent of capacity. Operations were up one point at Youngstown and three points at Wheeling but off one point at Chicago, two points at Cleveland and Detroit, and three points at Cincinnati and in New England.

Letters from Our Readers

IT WON'T BE HENRY

Editor of The Star: The year '48 is starting out with storms in most parts of the nation, and while New York is digging out from under the snow, another storm is brewing which will cause the Republicans and Democrats some concern and a lot of wind blowing this presidential year. For another political child is born, and Henry is the father.

The name has not yet been determined for this baby. But Henry says it will bring peace to the world, providing Uncle Joe and his Reds approve of the same. For Henry has made it plain that the U. S. must get on more friendly terms with Russia. But the more kindness you may administer to a bear the tighter you may get squeezed.

But leave it to Henry, the greatest bungler of all times, seeking to become the leader of the people and holder of the nation's highest office. But the people have not forgotten Henry's more abundant life by the slaughter of the little pigs and plowing under the cotton and corn. Now he is out to plow under the two major parties with his third party bunk.

Well now, there are some perhaps down at Washington who would help us all if they were kicked out, but we certainly don't want them replaced with Henry Wallace and his followers. But there is no need to take this third party too much at heart, for it is just a little whirlwind which will blow out without doing much damage to the old party line.

Henry has been on both sides of the political fence, and now has taken to the field of his own, but watch your ploughing, Henry. You made a mess of agriculture when secretary and now are trying to make a bungle in politics, by starting a third party.

We once had the Bull Moose and I suppose it will be the Rusisan Bear which will take well with the Communists that are climbing on the third party band wagon. Not that they think you will be elected but just to help split the Democratic party, which will make an all-out victory for Republicans next November. We are going to have a new leader in the White House in '49 and it won't be Henry Wallace.

Richwood, O.

HITLER OR DEMOCRACY

Editor of The Star: There has been much propaganda of late for peacetime military training. I would like to write a few words against it.

To begin with, PMT is radically opposed to our democratic way of life. It will corrupt the morals of our youth, make us a military minded nation and send us on the way to ruin just as it has sent other great powers on their way to ruin; viz. the Roman Empire and more recently the Nazis.

PMT is to prepare for war, not peace, and if we prepare for war in this gunpowder sprinkled world we can be sure of getting it. We won't, however, be around to enjoy the bloody fruits of another victory. The atomic bomb will take care of that.

I have read and heard some good arguments, to be honest, for PMT. They were written and advertised by Adolf Hitler. Just read his book Mein Kampf if you want the good arguments for PMT. The point is this: are we going to follow Hitler in his diabolical way of life or are we going to continue in the way of good old U. S. democracy? Let's have a little of the latter philsophy in the newspapers of our land and not so much of the former.

Encouraging Inflation

IT IS no wonder the President's Republican opponents and some Democrats have been ripping into his tax program with considerable g'ee, for it is a jerry-built structure held together with pins and bailing wire. The recommendations are opportunistic in that they are aimed at reducing "the swollen profits of industry" while making a bid for votes at $40 apiece.

Regarding the vast profits reputedly accruing to industry, the commerce department reports that the amount of business income currently going into profits is 12.9 per cent, the same as in 1929. However, taxes and inventory valuation adjustment reduce that figure to 7 per cent compared with 11 per cent in 1929. Meanwhile, labor's share of income originating in business rose from 56.1 per cent in 1929 to 59.4 per cent last year.

These statistics don't justify the further shifting of the tax burden from individuals to business, for it would place $3,000,000,000 more purchasing power in the hands of buyers while whittling down reserves available to finance industrial expansion. Already firms short of capital are boosting the demand for bank loans, and the bank loan graph is one of the charts on which the fever of inflation is measured.

If the President had stood by his former opposition to any tax reduction calculated to increase consumer spending, he would have been on firm ground and entitled to respect for a courageous stand. As it is, his plain bid for votes is encouraging tax reduction advocates in both parties when a continued high tax rate would check inflation and cancel a substantial part of the national debt.

No Iron Curtain for U. S.

WHEN congress clipped the state department appropriation for overseas broadcasts and student exchanges in its first session, it made a mistake.

Its forward-thinking members—some of them made that way by a first-hand look at Europe last summer—now hope to correct the mistake. They will support a proposal to broaden overseas information and to encourage the schooling of European students in American universities. They want no iron curtain lowered on the telling of the American story.

Their reasoning is clear and direct: the United States is in a battle with Communists for men's minds. The Communists are experts in the use of falsehood. The United States depends on truth to offset Communist lies. It must tell its story, therefore, wherever men will listen to it.

Fortunately, this campaign of truth to offset lies wasn't abandoned last year. It merely was crippled by false economy. Some of the same congressmen who voted to cut the appropriation now are in a mood to give the state department the money it needs to restore America's voice. The Truman administration has nominated George V. Allen, a career diplomat with a newspaper background, to do the job. But first he must have more money.

Statehood Bills Up Again

THE President has renewed his recommendations of statehood for Hawaii and Alaska, with a senate vote on Hawaii likely to be taken at this session. Having already passed the house, the Hawaii bill has a good chance of passing if it doesn't fall victim of legislative inertia and wind up in a pigeonhole.

However, many congressmen have serious reservations concerning Alaskan statehood. The arguments are that Alaska hasn't enough population and that it isn't developed enough. As a matter of fact, Alaska has more people than 13 states did when they were admitted, and as for its lack of development, its territorial status is its greatest drawback. A new state constitution to replace the obsolete code under which Alaska is governed would encourage settlers, give Alaskans a fuller share of federal benefits and do much to develop the tremendous resources there.

Alaska is a vital link in our strategic frontier. The better to develop that frontier and make it strong, Alaskans deserve a full measure of citizenship. We have regarded Alaska too long as a land to be exploited for its great natural resources with little thought of giving it anything in return. Alaska deserves statehood now.

Men of Many Talents

AN ENIGMATIC, oriental item appears in Tokyo's Nippon Times extolling the talents of Emperor Hirohito. It says: "It is not everybody who can take a fan between his toes and fan himself. Not only can Emperor Hirohito perform this stunt, but he is able to do so while swimming. He can also swim in the rain holding an open umbrella in one hand."

While the western world has no amphibious emperors of record, its men in public life also have their specialties. Among them are carrying water on both shoulders, political fence-mending, keeping one ear to the ground, log-rolling, and playing both ends against the middle as in tax reduction in election years.

Did You Know

There were about 700,000 grass, brush and rubbish fires in the United States in 1946.

Scanning the Record

By George E. Sokolsky

Lessons Learned from a Blizzard.

THE snow of 1947-48, which crippled New York and its environs, would really be a matter of slight importance were it not that a bomb might do the same thing and find this and other cities equally unprepared.

For some reason, which perhaps psychologists can understand better than politicians, preparedness is not an American trait. For instance, as the record now discloses itself, the United States was in peril of being involved in war at every moment after the invasion of Poland in 1939. Certainly, after Sumner Welles' visit to Berlin in 1940, there was no doubt about it. Yet, no preparations were made and it took a year or more after Pearl Harbor before we actually got going.

SOKOLSKY

The snowstorm found New York without adequate equipment, with its temperamental mayor on vacation, with no disaster plans that could be set in motion immediately against the insuperable forces of destruction. True, the coming of the storm was nobody's fault, but the appearance of B-29's or their successors, hurtling bombs on our skyscrapers, would be no one's fault; yet the responsibility for preparedness can not be shifted so readily. We know now that we are menaced.

The people were, during the storm, on the whole good-natured and cheerful. They were left without means of transportation except for subways and the suburban trains. the subways ran underground and out of the way of snow and wind and did a magnificent service. Suburban trains fought the wind and snow and third-rail shorts and they did a magnificent service in the circumstances. They were late but they did not stop. Buses, taxis, motor lorries and other forms of surface transportation quit—although great praise should be given the milk and bread deliveries which came on the job with astonishing rapidity.

Dodge Responsibility

Instead of acknowledging lack of preparedness, the officials blamed slow snow-fighting on parked automobiles which impeded bulldozers, snow plows, etc. The local magistrate's courts fined the owners of these cars by streamlined justice which gave the appearance of an attempt on the part of municipal officials to find the cost of snow removal in parking fines.

In view of the fact that the city is normally short of garages, that most garage-owners are unconscionable gougers who would not be tolerated in a properly managed community; in view of the further fact that the owners of cars had suffered costly damages because their cars had been literally drowned in snow and ice during a year when anti-freezing compounds are scarce; and since towing vehicles and chains were scarcer than hen's teeth, it seems unfair, indecent, and even dishonest to place the blame on the fellow whose car got stuck.

Long-Standing

But it is characteristic both of our unpreparedness and of the politician's efforts to detract from his own shortcomings that he should have dramatized the wickedness of the already suffering citizen. They have been doing that for years.

The New York "Daily Mirror" quoted three magistrates as being responsible for the follo'wing three asininities:

"I get along without one (an automobile." Next case. "Don't keep a car." "These days people should first find a garage, and then buy a car."

This untoward incident can not detract from the good spirit and general cooperative attitude of the average citizen in the face of the unpreparedness of the municipal officials. Yet, were we faced with war and bombs and gas and explosions, it would be too late for a good spirit and gentle forbearance. It would be too late for anything but panic and disaster.

The lesson of the snowstorm is clear. Instead of spending billons in futilities, this country now needs to be prepared for any emergency. It needs to have every device on hand to meet sudden and fearful disaster. Maybe nothing will ever happen. Maybe the lion will lie down with the lamb. Maybe the United Nations will save the world. Maybe Stalin will sing the "Star Spangled Banner" every morning before breakfast. Maybe we shall have a century of peace. But preparedness is insurance that the barn door is locked before the horse is stolen. Our minds might just as well be adjusted to that necessity.

Just a Minute

By Jack Tarver

She's In Bad Shape Mentally, Too

A Washington lady has called upon city officials to return a pink satin girdle placed in her garbage can by mistake.

Apparently that New Year's resolution to eat less wasn't as easy to keep as anticipated.

That's the trouble with most diets . . . . they look better on paper than they do on your plate.

But to get back to the girdle, which the lady in question is endeavoring to do, she explained to the sanitation department that it was an item "of great sentimental value."

And I had thought only a house was attached to its foundation.

Incidentally, if they find it, I trust she will have it cleaned before wearing it. A lot of people have ants in their pants . . . . but can you imagine coffee grounds in your girdle?

Truman and Taft Avoid Present

By Walter Lippmann

THE President in his message and Senator Taft in his reply both had their eyes fixed in distant horizons. Neither had much to say about what they thing the state of the Union in fact is. The main difference between the two orations was that Mr. Truman painted a picture of his hopes for the next 10 years while Mr. Taft was more interested in expressing his disapproval of the last 10 years. Mr. Truman devoted his main effort to a program for his successors. Mr. Taft, on the other hand, is still arguing it out with President Roosevelt, Mr. Tugwell, and Mr. Harry Hopkins.

They were agreed, however, that the immediate present and the near future were not so good subjects for exact discussion.

Mr. Truman is leaving exact discussion to Secretary Marshall on the subject of foreign policy, to Secretary Forrestal on the subject of national defense, to Secretary Harriman on one aspect of inflation, to Secretary Snyder on another aspect, to Chairman Eccles on another aspect. It is apparently not the responsibility of the Chief Executive when he discusses the state of the union to explain how they all fit together into a workable and solvent national effort.

Taft Stand a Mystery

Mr. Taft, on the other hand, takes the view that the leader of the majority party in congress has done his duty when he has picked and pecked at bits and pieces of the President's oration. If anyone can tell where Mr. Taft really stands on foreign policy, national defense, inflation, he must have private knowledge above and beyond the senator's public utterances.

Issues Not Defined

The argument between Mr. Truman and Mr. Taft has not thus far done much to define the issues, to make specific the order of business before the country, or to clarify the purposes of the nation. As a rehearsal for a national campaign on which much is likely to depend, the debates between Mr. Truman and Mr. Taft are impassioned arguments chiefly about matters that belong to the past which is irrevocably behind us or to the future which is far ahead of us.

They are, as Mr. Dooley once said of the two other presidential candidates, as far apart as the two poles of the earth and as much alike. For neither of them has taken a comprehensive and specific view of our obligations and our means, our interests and our resources, in the critically important and fateful period through which we are passing. Yet until that is done, until the great balance sheet has been calculated, the priorities decided upon, and the secondary things postponed or abandoned, the country, which never needed leadership more, will not have it.

One of Mr. Taft's incidental remarks needs to be examined in view of his general opposition to the Marshall plan. "The biggest inflationary element," he said, "has been the export of goods and services in 1947 up to 18 billions against only 10 billions of imports. Ten billion dollars came in here, mostly loaned by us, to compete with our citizens for goods and services."

Adds To Inflation

There is no doubt that the export surplus has added somewhat to the inflationary pressure. But it is simply not true to say that it has been "the biggest element." The biggest element is and has been the increase in the total of the demand deposits and currency owned by the public and by business firms and corporations. The increase was from 33 billion dollars in 1939 to approximately 112 billions at the end of 1947, and the whole of this increase took place during the war and because of the war. The amount of the exports financed by United States government aid was between seven and eight billions. These cannot have been "the biggest inflationary element."

As a matter of fact during 1947 the American civilian population consumed a larger proportion of the gross product of this country than at any time since 1939. During the war years they consumed only about 60 per cent. In 1947 they consumed 90 per cent.

The special factor in the exports to Europe is not that they are an abnormally large proportion of our total experts. It is that our imports from Europe are abnormally low. They are, as compared with prewar, proportionately cut in half. That is because Europe is short of goods and as yet has been unable to expand its production to meet its own needs and to export enough to pay for all it must import.

This is important because it bears so directly on one of the central features of the Marshall plan. It is designed to revive and expand production, and thus to cure the very thing which Mr. Taft, and all the rest of us, and all the European countries as well, dislike and deplore; that so many of the great countries of Europe, ravaged by the war, are unable as yet to earn enough to support themselves.

Precisely because the Marshall plan is designed to make them self-supporting, it is not relief but a true measure of reconstruction. And because its aim is solvency through production its general effect on the world and on this country will not be inflationary.

The Lone Defender

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Wednesday, Jan. 12, 1938. Colder weather and snow overspread portions of the midwest as weather forecasters recalled it was the 50th anniversary of the west's "great blizzard" of 1888. More than four inches of snow fell in northern Minnesota and snow was general in the Dakotas and Wisconsin.

Dr. R. H. Finefrock, 69, widely-known practicing physician of Prospect, was killed when his automobile crashed into a tree near that village.

A flood control project involving construction of dams on the Scioto river and its tributaries, including one in northern Delaware county, took a forward step when a federal engineer at Cincinnati announced he was ready to start on a survey of the river at once.

Mrs. Mabel Bonecutter was installed as president for the eighth year and Mrs. Elizabeth Strausbaugh took over her duties as secretary for the twentieth year at a meeting of Eclipse Favorite No. 40, auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

The sum of $620 was cleared on the 10th annual benefit holiday dance sponsored by the Woman's Board of the Marion City Hospital, it was reported at a meeting of the members held at Hotel Harding.

The "big apple" took the spotlight on the Nine to Twelve Dance club's program at the opening dance of the post-holiday season, held in the Elks' hall.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Thursday, Jan. 12, 1928. America's friendship for Cuba was to be stressed in President Coolidge's forthcoming address at the Pan-American congress in Havana.

Reports showing a gain in business of $30,000, the largest in the company's history, was submitted at the annual meeting of the Citizens Building & Loan Co.

M. S. Mahaffey of Morral and Roland L. Leeper of Marion, president and secretary of the Marion Agricultural society, returned from Columbus, where they attended the annual meeting of the Ohio Fair Managers association.

Harry Zillich of Toledo, convicted of complicity in the $175,000 robbery of the Commercial Savings bank at Galion, was sentenced to serve from 12 to 25 years in the Ohio penitentiary by Common Pleas Judge J. Walter Wright at Bucyrus.

The Not So Grim Reaper

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON—Rumors of the impending death of Generalissimo Josef Stalin are an annual crop, and the present heavy harvest has produced the customary reactions among the American experts. They will believe the story when it has been officially announced. Nevertheless, since the expectation that Stalin must some day die is an important point of American foreign policy, it seems to be worthwhile to set down the known facts.

In the first place, those Americans who have the best means of forming a judgment consider that Stalin has been far from completely well for some years. At one of the war-time conferences, he actually confessed to President Roosevelt that he had trouble with both his heart and lungs. After Tehran his plane was unexpectedly grounded at Baku, whence he returned by rail to Moscow. The reason for this, and his subsequent refusal to travel anywhere by air, is thought to have been the sharp effect on his lungs of flying at altitude.

In the second place, however, the same men admit that Stalin may last a long while yet. As his frequent trips to Sochi indicate, he has been taking excellent care of himself since the end of the war. His holidays invigorate him greatly—when Secretary of Commerce Averell Harriman visited Sochi during the greatest of all outbursts of "Stalin is dying" talk, he found the Russian dictator looking better than he had for years. And everyone who has ever seen Stalin regards him as one of the toughest specimens of the tough Georgian race.

Next Rumor Unpredictable

Thus there is no telling whether this crop of rumors, or the next one, or the one after that, may be right or wrong.

Meanwhile, whatever reliable facts can be obtained on Stalin's health have an interest far greater than mere gossip. Stalin's death is in fact considered likely to produce changes in Soviet policy. The argument for this view is as follows:

After Stalin is removed from the world scene, the experts expect the control of the Soviet Union to pass to a sort of inner committee of the Politburo. According to this theory, Molotov will be Stalin's official heir, inheriting the outward trappings of leader of the Soviet state. Beria, meanwhile, will control the MVD—the changed but unchanging secret police; the Russian Communist party will be headed by Zdhanov, hero of the Cominform organization meeting; and to Bulganin will go the leadership of the Russian military forces. In other words, while Molotov will get the trappings of power, the fundamental levers of command will be held by his three juniors among the politburo's inner group.

History teaches, and the experts believe, that there can be no stability in this quadripartite division of the power of an autocratic state. What is anticipated was suggested by George Kennan, state department planner, in his famous "Mr. X" article. There will be a conflict, paralleling the conflict that convulsed Rome after the death of Augustus. Then the Roman imperial house, the senatorial plutocracy, the state bureaucracy and the legions fought it out together, until only the legions survived to rule the empire.

The inevitable similarities of the situation that will obtain in Moscow after Stalin's death are strikingly obvious. Moreover, in this modern case, the conflict should be rendered all the more embittered by each of the different forms of state power being personified in a single individual. The prediction is that this inner conflict will rage in the Kremlin from the day of Stalin's funeral for an indeterminate but probably considerable period. There will probably be several permutations and combinations—first three against one, then one against two, and so on. And at last another sole ruler will be chosen for the Soviet Union by the ruthless law of the survival of the fittest.

What interests the experts about these struggles is, of course, their probable effect upon the Soviet state and power. The best prediction is that the form of the Soviet state will remain always outwardly unaltered, whatever dark melodrama may be enacted within the Kremlin's guarded walls.

But in such struggles, the starting points, at least ostensibly, are always disputes over policy. In the similar contest which took place after the death of Lenin, both the Soviet bureaucracy, and the Communist parties at home and abroad were constantly rent and riven by policy disputes. These were chiefly mere outer manifestations of the Stalin-Trotsky rivalry. Yet the end result was the temporary crippling of the Communist parties outside the Soviet Union, and a drastic change in the Soviet Union's foreign policy. The Stalin theory of "Socialism in one country" was officially adopted, while the NKVD hounded all dissenters to the fitting end of heretics.

Possible Prelude to Abdication

"KING MICHAEL of Rumania abdicates following a Moscow rejection of his plans for marriage."—News item.

Stalin—What's this about your being engaged?
Michael—I am afraid it is so, sir.
Stalin—Engaged at a time like this! What is your explanation?
Michael—I have fallen in love.
Stalin—You mean to stand there and tell me that, with the world demanding so many things of a man today, you have fallen in this, er, this, what do you call it?
Michael—Love.
Stalin—A capitalistic word! A word from the vocabulary of soft-living people! This is not to go hard with you, my lad. A man in love in these times, and unashamed of it! What is your alibi?
Michael—I just met a beautiful girl and something happened to me... my heart stood still.
Vishinsky (who has been listening)—With all our hearts working yours stood still! Hearts must keep on the job; we forbid them to stand still. The cry is "Forward!" When it is time for a heart to stand still you will be notified.
Michael—But surely you know how such things happen . our eyes met . our pulse beat quickened.. our very souls seemed to merge as one...
Molotov—So, a merger he calls it!...A Wall Street operation!
Stalin—Let him go on; he's hanging himself.
Michael—She spoke to me.. I spoke to her.
Stalin—Let us have a complete report of what was said.
Michael—But a boy and a girl don't record what they say at such a time.
Vishinsky—Under our system they had better.

Molotov—What happened next?
Michael—It was a case of love at first sight.
Vishinsky — Such Democratic piffle! Such bourgeois buncombe! Love at first sight! Fancy it! Without study, without data, without a thorough Kremlin inquiry!
Molotov—Even without the necessary papers?
Stalin—Michael, I had better warn you at this time that you are making very serious admissions. An engagement can mean marriage.
Michael—Yes, I know it and intend to marry as soon as she is ready.
Vishinsky—When we are ready, you mean, sir.
Michael—When a man and woman are in love the marriage compact is their own business.
Molotov—Any compact that is not Russian business is enemy business!

Can You Remember—

Away back when all barflies were male?

Just Like Old Times

By TRUMAN TWILL

Funny, isn't it, how old friends you haven't seen for a long time look the worse for wear when you finally see them again? Their hair is grayer—also thinner if they're males. Their eyes looks too large or too small. They have bags under their eyes, and are showing startling signs of being older.

They have picked up annoying habits along the way and haven't got rid of any of the bad ones they used to have when you knew them in the old days. They seem to have dropped behind the procession and get lost on a side road, poor devils.

They are preoccupied with matters of no interest to anyone else and, to make matters worse, are tactless enough to think these matters are important. They either have made too much money or not enough, which puts them on an uneven footing.

The jobs they do are puzzling: you expected more of them—something as important as the job you're doing, which they fail to appreciate. Their children, if any, seem to be below par on a competitive basis.

Something has happened to the qualities that once made them the finest people on earth. These have become corroded, or have disappeared altogether. In fact, the things that once made them the finest people on earth are hard to remember. You have a hunch they feel the same way about you.

Both of you try too hard to turn back the clock, and the harder you try the sillier the performance becomes. You roar about recollections that aren't amusing, grope for almost forgotten names and places and invent incidents that never happened.

You simply can't understand why you alone shouldn't have aged or grown dull with the passing of time; why you alone managed to get into the kind of work that was important; why you alone should be keeping up with the procession and striking a proper balance in all things.

The only thing that makes the situation bearable is the certainty that your old friend, hearing help him—or her—is hoping heaven will help you too because it's a shame things didn't break better for Old Bagears—he used to be such fun when he was younger but look what time has done...nothing good.

Love's Perilous Path

[illegible] exuberance of my relief [illegible] "K."'s decision that he [illegible] to remain in the Veritas [illegible] room because I was [illegible] the tying up of the [illegible] who had trailed him [illegible] hotel. I had hard work to [illegible] my risibles at the sight of [illegible] Veritzen swelling up like [illegible] proverbial turkey-cock be[illegible] his chivalrous suggestion [illegible] Olga in the living [illegible] had been flouted—I was [illegible] that was the word he was [illegible] applying to the recep[illegible] which Dicky and Mr. "K." "But—but—" he sputtered when he could find speech. Then, I [illegible] with the remembrance of [illegible] problems of my father's which [illegible] had shared, he caught back [illegible] protesting words, to which [illegible] Dicky nor Mr. "K." was [illegible] the slightest attention, [illegible] the high mottled color slowly faded from his face.

I had no time, however, to [illegible] other than the beginning of the fading process, for Mr. "K." was speaking to me.

"Will you please come around to where I am standing, Mrs. Graham," he said, "and take the revolver from me, being careful not to deflect its aim for an instant?"

I did not waste time in answering him, but went directly to his side. But he spoke to the two men on the floor before he gave the weapon to me.

"Don't make any mistake about Mrs. Graham," he told the men on the floor. "She is a better shot than the average run of men who shoot, and can hold her own with a lot of experts. And she hasn't a nerve in her body, and no scruples whatever about drilling holes in such rats as you. So, if you don't want some bullets in places you won't like, just behave yourselves. Now, Mrs. Graham, I'm not taking my eyes off these babies until you have your hands on this revolver. Will you take it from me, very carefully, please, keeping it leveled on these men all the time? When you have it firmly in your hands, with your eyes on the men, tell me, and I'll get at the roping with Adams and Miller. Dicky, you don't mind my taking this over, do you?"

"Don't waste my time talking nonsense," my husband said with a grin. "You've got more important business on the calendar."

"That I have," the FBI man said, and by the time the colloquy was finished, I had his revolver held firmly in my hands.

"I have the revolver leveled," I told Mr. "K." without looking at him, for my eyes were fixed on the men at whom I was pointing the weapon.

"Good!" I heard Mr. "K." say. "I'll get busy with these ropes."

I could not see all that he and his assistant were doing, nor could Dicky, I knew, for we were watching the men on the floor as if we were wary cats circling cornered rats. But, from Mr. "K."'s lowtoned instructions to Adams and Miller, I knew that he was measuring off pieces of rope with his eyes, having them cut, and then directing the men while doing a good share of the work himself. And, of course, when they got down to the actual roping, their movements were directly below our eyes.

Evidently the thugs recognized a stone wall when they saw one, for they attempted no resistance, but if venomous eyes could have killed, all of us would have been stretched lifeless on the floor.

"There!" the FBI man said at last, dusting his hands together; and looking up at us with a grin. "You can rest your arms now. They're well tethered."

He rose effortlessly, and held out his hand to me for his revolver.

"Swell job!" he said as I handed the revolver to him. "We sure needed you here."

"I didn't think you'd let her go and sit on the side lines," my husband said, and there was a note of pride in his voice that thrilled me. He put his revolver back inside his belt, and gave me a comradely grin, then turned back to Mr. "K."

"Well, when do we go from here?" he asked.

FARM SAFETY MOVE PLANNED

Granges and Farm Bureau Councils Take Lead in Program.

Organization of a Marion county rural safety committee in the interests of farm safety is being planned by representatives of the Granges and Farm Bureau councils.

Initial steps were taken at a recent meeting of representatives of the two groups with the appointment of a preliminary committee to plan a countywide rural safety committee.

It was pointed out at the meeting that similar committees in other counties have reduced farm accidents by as much as a third. Prevention of a single fatal accident the committee agreed would be worth the time spent by a countywide committee working in the interests of increased farm safety.

Committee Set Up

The committee set up a county committee to comprise the following representatives: One man and one woman each from the county Granges and the Farm Bureau council and a single representative from these organizations, Vo-ag teachers, Chamber of Commerce, soil conservation supervisors, Triple A, county schools, 4-H clubs, home council, county health department, Marion Star, WMRN, Vets Training instructors Older Rural Youth group, Marion county agricultural society and home economics teachers.

This committee would be authorized to conduct the county program, setting up sub-committees, an executive committee, and make whatever plans necessary to promote the program of farm safety.

Other Interested Groups

Suggestions made for development included addition of other representatives to the main or subcommittees. Specifically mentioned were such groups as the Red Cross, Boy Scouts, utility and insurance companies that could render valuable assistance in the program.

One of the first major meetings of the group will occur Feb. 12 when W. E. Stuckey, farm safety specialist will address the county committee. The evening meeting has been tentatively scheduled for the production credit rooms.

Lending assistance in the program are the offices of the county agent and home demonstration agent.

Greenwood P.-T.A. To Hear Dr. Holcomb

Dr. Paul Holcomb of the bureau of educational research, will be the speaker for a meeting of the Greenwood P.-T.A. Tuesday night at 7:45 o'clock at the school. His topic will be "Improved Mental Health at home and at School." Completing the program will be music by Mrs. Lewis Wills and Mrs. Ralph Mills, Harry Snauffer, president, will be in charge of the meeting which will be followed by a social hour.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a long sleeved white winter pool two-piece dress trimmed in gold sequins. Her accessories were black, and she wore a white orchid tied with greenery.

Mrs. Loyal Chaney of Lakewood was matron of honor for her sister. She wore a gray crepe dress with a hoop skirt effect, and black accessories. Her corsage was of roses.

Mrs. Kay Williams, of near Edison, accompanied by the bridegroom's father, sang, "At Dawning," "Because," and "I Love You Truly."

The bride's mother wore a brown suit with a corsage of red roses and a gardenia. The groom's mother wore a black and white crepe dress. Her corsage was identical with that of the bride's mother.

A reception at the home of the bride's parents followed immediately after the wedding. A four-tier wedding cake with white icing topped with a miniature bride and groom centered the table. Ice cream, punch, coffee, and mints were served to 50 guests.

The bride graduated from Edison High school in 1945 and attended Otterbein college for two years. Mr. Kittel served in the Army after graduating from Marengo school in 1945. He is now a student at Ohio State university.

Truman Budget Sets New High

ing proposals for next year as follows:

National defense—$11,000,000,000 to maintain the air force, army and navy at "current strength" and to give a $400,000,000 start to a proposed $2,000,000,000 a year universal (compulsory) military training program.

International affairs — $7,000,000,000, including $4,000,000,000 for the Marshall plan of aid to Europe, $440,000,000 for "other" proposed aid, $1,250,000,000 for army-provided relief in occupied areas, and $500,000,000 in trade promotion loans, mostly to Latin America.

Veterans programs — $6,100,000,000, 15 per cent of the total and $530,000,000 less than this year.

Interest on the public debt—$5,250,000,000, 13.2 per cent of the total and $50,000,000 more than this year, largely because of interest accumulation on the masses of savings bonds bought during the war.

Social welfare, health and security—$2,000,000,000, 5 per cent of the total and $70,000,000 more than this year. This would include increased aid to dependent children and the blind and initial administrative costs of the proposed health insurance program. The medical-care benefits would be self-financing through a one-half of one per cent tax on payrolls beginning next January 1.

Tax refunds—$1,990,000,000 five per cent of the total and down $59,000,000.

Natural resources—$1,800,000,000, 4.1 per cent of the total and $447,000,000 above this year. Atomic energy development would get $860,000,000, a $204,000,000 boost; flood control $449,000,000, a $135,000,000 increase, and reclamation $268,000,000, up $85,000,000.

Transportation and communication—$1,600,000,000, or 4.1 per cent of the total and $83,000,000 more than this year. Biggest items: $478,000,000 for highways, a $72,000,000 increase; $321,000,000 to cover a deficit in postal operations; $211,000,000 for airport building and improvement, air navigation aids and research, a $37,000,000 increase; $22,000,000 to the maritime commission for "limited" new ship construction, a $126,000,000 decrease; $171,000,000 for rivers and harbors, a $40,000,000 increase.

General government — $1,200,000,000, 2.9 per cent of the total and $316,000,000 less than this year largely because the job of selling surplus war property is nearing completion.

Agriculture — $906,000,000, 2.3 per cent of the total and almost $300,000,000 more than this year. The principal reason for the increase is that the commodity credit corporation, which made $247,000,000 this year from sugar sales, will need $12,000,000 to operate next year.

Education and research—$387,000,000 or one per cent of the total and $310,000,000 more than this year. This includes $290,000,000 for a new program of federal grants to states for grammar, grade and high school education and $5,000,000 for a proposed new "national science foundation."

Finance, commerce and industry—$190,000,000 or 0.5 per cent of the total and about $182,000,000 less than this year. The total cost of these functions was artificially high this year because $210,000,000 in profits from war damage insurance was turned over to the treasury as an "expenditure." The proposed 1949 outlay would include $80,000,000 to administer Mr. Truman's requested compulsory anti-inflation program expenses this year.

Labor—$116,000,000, 0.3 per cent of total spending and about $20,000,000 more than this year. This provides for spending $1,000,000 to set up a "national commission against discrimination in employment" proposed by Mr. Truman as a successor to the fair employment practices commission, and more money for the labor department's mediation and information services, plus Taft-Hartley labor act enforcement.

Housing and community facilities—$38,000,000, 0.1 per cent of total spending and $75,000,000 less than this year. The President said he will recommend later a comprehensive, long-range program for federal housing aid.

While Mr. Truman laid greatest stress on what he called the "unprecedented challenge" of the administration's foreign aid undertaking, he declared that there also is urgent need for his domestic program.

Warns Against "Failures"

"Failure to improve our educational system or to expland flood-control work would mean risking the loss of precious resources—human and material," he said.

"Failure to adopt a program of health insurance would mean that many families will continue to go without adequate medical care.

"Failure to broaden the coverage of present social insurance and to increase benefits on a permanent basis would mean too much reliance upon relief, whereas more reliance on insurance is our national objective.

"Failure to adopt a long-range housing program would mean further delay in achieving decent housing standards.

"Failure to devote needed sums to our atomic plant would mean that we would be derelict in the use of one of our most valuable resources. * * *

"All of these programs directly support the twofold objective of building economic and individual strength and health in this nation, and of better preparing this nation to discharge its increased responsibilities in the families of nations."

COURT SITS IN MAUMEE CASE

Judges Hear Letter from State Official Backing Conservancy Plan.

By The Associated Press

DEFIANCE, O., Jan. 12—A 15-judge court today heard arguments for and against a proposed Maumee watershed conservancy district and studied a letter from State Agriculture Director Frank Fransworth who supports the proposal.

Petitioners have urged formation of the district to organize a flood control and water conservation plan for a 15-county area. Last Nov. 17, when the conservancy court organized, Fulton county commissioners joined Williams county commissioners in filing resolutions asking exclusion from the district.

Farnsworth's letter, turned over to the common pleas court jurists by Mrs. Florence M. Palmer, conservancy court clerk, held that his "observation and experience of more than 40 years at Waterville, O., (Lucas county) have proven conclusively the tragic losses to agriculture, industry and humanity of the extremes of both droughts and floods in the Maumee valley watershed."

Farnsworth's Letter

Repeated floods, Farnsworth asserted, had taken a "tremendous toll of property, natural scenery and of most consequence, the non-replaceable soil that supports this bread basket of Ohio."

As owner of 200 acres of orchards in the Maumee valley, Farnsworth said he "heartily" endorsed the proposed project.

"Because the needs for soil conservation and water control originated on the individual farm," Farnsworth continued, "this organization is needed at the grass roots."

Meanwhile, Robert Stirling, technician in the Detroit district office of the U. S. Army Engineers, disclosed that various flood control studies now are under way in this area. Stirling said U.S. department of agriculture experts, the U.S. geological survey, weather bureau and other federal, state and local agencies are cooperating in a survey of the volume and speed of water running off the Maumee valley.

Another survey, under Joe C. Laspisa, in charge of the Toledo sub-office of the Army Engineers, will cover the Maumee river and all its tributaries. These include parts of five Indiana counties, three in Michigan, and the 15 northwestern Ohio counties coming within the proposed district.

To Estimate Cost

Stirling said the Army Engineers would appraise engineering needs for a control program and then furnish an estimate of cost. Final decision on the advisability of proceeding with any improvement, as a federal project, would be up to congress, Stirling said.

Two substitute judges were on the bench when the hearing opened. They were Judge Ralph Sugrue of Tiffin, for presiding Judge C. W. Palmer of Defiance, and Judge Arthur V. Baumann of Fremont, for Judge Frank S. Ham of Wauseon. Judge Palmer is recovering from a recent major operation, while Judge Hamm requested to be excused for reasons of health.

Other common pleas judges, assigned to the court by Chief Justice Carl V. Weygandt of the Ohio supreme court, are M. B. Jenkins, Allen county; Jacob T. Koenig, Auglaize; Chester Pendleton, Hancock; Harvey C. Straub, Lucas; Arthur D. Tudor, Hardin; Fred G. Behren, Henry; Paul T. Dull, Mercer; Mervin Day, Paulding; Eugene R. McNeill, Van Wert; Earl K. Solether, Wood; Huber A. Verry, Shelby; R. V. Maxwell, Williams, and A. A. Slaybaugh, Putnam.

Arthritis Pain Curbed Easy Way

Recent medical tests by a prominent Chicago physician prove that most people who suffer from stabbing or dull, nerve-racking pains in the back, hands, legs, arms, shoulders and neck, due to Rheumatism, Arthritis, Neuritis, Lumbago, Neuralgia, or Sciatica can expect quick help from the remarkable medicine called Rowind.

Rowind is a tasteless internal medicine that usually works fast through the blood to help 3 ways: 1. First dose starts right to work curbing pain. 2. Helps nature remove poisonous excess acids and wastes from the system. 3. Helps you to work, sleep and enjoy life in greater comfort. So, if you have tried most everything without really satisfying relief, don't suffer another day without getting Rowind from your druggist. Satisfaction or money back guaranteed.

From now un... June it will ... to see how ... government ... be run on ... money than ... Truman says it needs.

... will check on each depart..., one at a time, and in the ... vote what it thinks is enough ... for each one.

Here's what lies behind the ... and the work ahead:

... a law passed by congress ... 1921 the President must send ... budget and budget message to congress when it comes back to work each January.

He doesn't ask the money for the year starting Jan. 1 and ending Dec. 31. It is for the fiscal year starting July 1 of one year and ending June 30 of the next.

The budget Mr. Truman sent to congress today is for the fiscal year 1949. It starts July 1, 1948 and ends June 30, 1949.

The job of gathering and checking on the money needs of each department goes on for months before the budget is sent to congress.

THE FIGURES IN the budget include things like salaries, office expenses, foreign aid, and running the various departments like State, Army and Navy.

As each department finishes its figures, it turns them over to the budget bureau which is boss of the budget.

The experts in the budget bureau then call in the department heads to show why they need so much for this, so much for that.

Those experts then try to trim the departments' figures. They keep the President advised of what they're doing.

Finally, the budget bureau puts all the figures together in one fat volume and turns the whole thing over to the President.

Then he turns the budget over to congress—as he did today—with his budget message which is his explanation of why he thinks that much money is needed.

ONCE CONGRESS GETS the budget, it starts to work. Or, rather, congressional committees do, one in the house, one in the senate. They're called the appropriations committees. By custom, the house committee starts first.

They hold hearings. The hearings will go on until next June. One by one each department's figures are examined.

The committeemen, sitting around a table, call in the department heads, one by one, to explain or justify the money they say they need.

Almost everything said at these hearings is recorded by senographers. The testimony fills many volumes and many thousands of pages.

The committees whack and whittle on the President's budget figures, trying to cut them down and so cut down the cost of running the government.

Then they've finished with a department, the committees draw up bills which they send to the full house and senate for debate and vote.

In these bills the committee say how much they think each department needs. The house and senate bills on any one department pretty often differ

VERY OFTEN THE house and senate cut down the amount okayed by their committees, or add to it.

In deciding how much money the government needs to run, congress has to know: How much can the government afford to spend?

The answer to this is also outlined in the President's message for in it he tells how much the government expects to collect in taxes during the year.

Unless congress can keep the spending less than the income, the government will have to borrow money from the banks to keep running.

A government department doesn't always spend as much money as congress allows it. But sometimes, during the year, it finds it has to spend more.

In that case the department has to go back to congress and ask for a little more. That means more hearings and more voting.

GALION—In an effort to gain as much information as possible in regard to Galion's electric power problems—adequate power for the city's industry and business—Mayor H. H. Hartmann last Friday visited the municipal light plants in the cities of Dover and Orrville, Ohio.

Plants in both cities are in excellent condition and furnishing the needs of the two cities, Dr. Hartmann observed. He is planning to visit other cities having municipally owned electric generating plants to observe their operation and equipment, he said.

He hopes to apply his knowledge gained in the visitations in operating and putting into condition the Galion Municipal Light and Power plant.

Roving Reports

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK

NOTES on a changing world:

If paving bills is a sign of character then college kids have plenty.

Most large schools now have special loan funds to help students in straitened financial circumstances finish their education. Since 1913 the University of Missouri has advanced $1,018,499 to more than 8,300 students, and its vice president, Leslie Cowan, says that only $5,500 has had to be written off as lost.

The students have paid back the loans 99½ cents on every dollar.

"Although conducted on a strictly business basis these loans to students are really investment in human character," Cowan said.

Hal Boyle

Last year one wealthy graduate who had borrowed from the loan fund as a student showed his gratitude by contributing $100,000 to the fund.

Continuing our explorations into the academic life, we report that a housing survey by the city college school of business here came up with this interesting conclusion:

Of the landlords interviewed 75 per cent said they preferred college instructors as tenants because of their "restrained type of living, their stable intelligent associates and their tendency toward care and respect of living quarters."

This was all flattering to professorial vanity—but the survey still failed to locate enough apartments to care for the teaching staff.

There is a shortage of ivory towers, too.

ONE UNUSUAL IMPACT on Manhattan made by the recent record snowfall: It even crowded the class struggle out of the headlines of the "Daily Workers," Communist newspaper.

Three days after the big snowfall the paper bannered: "8-inch snow due today."

(P. S. It didn't arrive. You can't even count on the weather in a capitalistic country.)

THIS DEPARTMENT has been invited to join a "crusade for good morality" being organized in the Philippines. We are in favor of all whole-hearted attacks against sin, wherever entrenched, but what fascinates us about this particular campaign is the clarion name and title of the man who heads it.

He is General Hilario Camino Moncado, supreme commander-in-chief, Filipino Crusaders World Army, Moncado palace, republic of the Philippines.

Okay, Hilario, lead on! We're holding the left flank in Greenwich village.

LEE CARSON, WIFE of radio news commentator George Putman, is back in the newspaper game after time out for a rendezvous with posterity—a baby daughter.

One of the ablest of the woman war correspondents, Lee eschewed skirts and wore regulation men's uniform while traveling with the American First Army in Europe. Once she shared a jeep with a male correspondent riding up to the front in Belgium. A Brooklyn doughboy stopped their vehicle at a frontline road block to check their identity.

Peering in suspiciously at the two figures heavily bundled against the cold, the doughboy suddenly began sniffing the frosty air, then asked doubtfully:

"Hey, is one of you guys wearing poiture?"

MAXIE, THE OFFICE mouse, philosophizes:

"About all I will predict for 1948 is that nobody will die from being struck by lightning in a barroom—if that is any consolation."

Annual Amateur Boxing Tournament To Be Held March 15-19 at Armory

This year's amateur boxing talent climbs out from under the basket Wednesday night for brightening as the training for the annual district A. A. U. Golden Gloves boxing tournament officially begins at the Y. M. C. A.

The fistic tournament is scheduled to be run off at the Armory, March 15, 17, and 19, and local boxers from small-fry to heavyweights get a chance at pre-tournament polishing on Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights at the Y.

Local boxers with professional or a lot of amateur experience who will coach the hopefuls include Jack Lewis, Howard Hodges, Jimmy Williams, and Otis Scott.

They will be aided by a supervisory committee of the sponsoring Y's Men's Service club made up by Robert Klatt, George Stafford, James Arnold, Claire Bachelder, Walter Kelsey, and Clayton Edson.

Joe Yannitel, former Golden Gloves winner at Sandusky, and finalist at Chicago, – is again tournament chairman. His co-chairman is Jack Bray, who will handle publicity along with Robert Kraner.

Ths year marks the fifth consecutive year the local Golden Gloves tourney has been sponsored by the Y's Men's club.

Eight Weight Divisions

There will be eight weight divisions this year in the A. A. U. competition which is limited to boys 18 years of age and older and also a Paperweight division for youngsters under 100 pounds.

Engraved trophies will be presented to the eight A. A. U. champions and their runners-up will receive silver boxing gloves. Awards will also be made to champions in the other two divisions.

As has been the case in previous years, A. A. U. champions will be sent to the state tourney to be held in Columbus late in March. Winners at Columbus will then be sent to the National A. A. U. boxing tournament in Boston will all expenses paid.

Regular training will be held every Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights from 7:30 to 9:30.

Richard Langdon, who handled the training of the paperweights last year, will again work with the small fry. Langdon states that all interested boys should report to the boxing room at four o'clock Friday afternoon. Regular training will be at that hour Monday, Wednesday and Friday up until the time of the tournament. Harold Van Gordon will assist Langdon with his training program.

Y Boxing Equipment

The Y. M. C. A. boxing room is equipped with light and heavy punching bags, skipping ropes, exercising apparatus, gloves, and a regulation boxing ring. According to Yannitel, new equipment is being purchased by the Y's Men to replace that worn out by enthusiastic Golden Glovers of past years.

Entrants are urged to fill out the accompanying entry blank at once and either turn it in personally Wednesday night or mail it to J. J. Bray, 250 Summit street. All entrants should be on hand Wednesday evening in the boxing room located on the third floor of the Y. M. C. A.

Yannitel said that actual work will start that night, following some preliminary discussion and instruction. He plans to stress the importance of regular training as a must to all entrants who desire to be in first-class fighting trim for their fights.

U.S.C.'s Cromwell Named Olympic Track Coach

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12—In his 39th and final year as a developer of great athletes, Southern California's Dean Cromwell has been appointed head coach of the 1948 U. S. Olympic track and field team.

"The culmination of a coach's dream"—meaning his own—was the way the smiling, spare 68-year-old Trojan coach put it.

This, Cromwell disclosed, is his last season as an active mentor. University of Southern California rules demand automatic retirement at age 67, but he was given a one-year extension with the hope that he would snag the Olympic appointment.

Chairman Kenneth (Tug) Wilson said Cromwell, who has furnished more Olympic material than any other coach (26 athletes since 1912), was the unanimous choice of his 13-man committee.

Wilberforce Takes Nite College, 85-60

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, Jan. 12— Wilberforce university won its fifth cage victory of the season here Saturday night as they handed Nite college an 85 to 60 trouncing.

Beasley, Wilberforce forward who is averaging over 20 points a game, opened for Wilberforce, and Lancaster followed with two baskets from the pivot post for the Nighthawks, but Ward and Alexander put the colored university into the lead that they held at halftime, 30 to 25.

Coach D. B. Noble's team came back and displayed a fast passing attack, and after five minutes of play in the second half tied the score at 35 to 35. At this point Wilberforce called time out and changed their tactics from a set offense to a hard-driving fast break and soon had a 49 to 40 lead.

Displaying a dazzling passing attack and speed that awed the fans, the Fisher-coached lads, driving in close but also relying on long shots, hit a high percentage of these to completely out-play Nite college in the closing minutes of the game and run up their score.

Saturday night, Nite college will play Ohio State junior varsity in the coliseum at Columbus as a preliminary game to the Ohio State-Pitt contest.

MANGRUM WINNER OF BING'S TOURNAMENT

By The Associated Press

DEL MONTE, Calif., Jan. 12—Stylish little Lloyd Mangrum today pocketed $2,533 and the professional golf championship in the 1948 Bing Crosby tournament.

Unique in its progress, the 54-hole tournament was played over three different courses here on successive days. Mangrum clubbed each one into submission, chalking up 10 under par for the three rounds, and a total of 205. He shot the par 72 Cypress Point course in 70; the par 71 Monterey Peninsula layout in 67 and the famed par 72 Pebble Beach test in 68.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver, B. C., grabbed the second spot with a 210. It was worth $1,550 to the Canadian.

Third place among his fellow professionals, was Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa. Hogan's medal score was 211, but he teamed with Johnny Dawson of Los Angeles to win the pro-amateur best ball competition with a low of 197.

Pressing Hogan but a stroke behind to take fourth position money, was Bobby Locke, knicker-wearing invader from Johannesburg, South Africa, who finished with 212. It was worth $1,233 to him.

"SANITY CODE" OK'D; STILL HAS LOOPHOLES

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Jan. 12—The "sanity code" has been written into the books but there were questions today about how far the National Collegiate Athletic association's new principles of conduct will go in eliminating subsidization of athletes.

The man who spearheaded the drive against semi-professionalism — Dr. Karl Leib of Iowa, N.C.A.A. president—acknowledges the code has its "loopholes."

"We still have the alumni problem," he said. "I don't feel we have it under control and the code no doubt will require further revision."

The set of admendments, as adopted by the some 400 major colleges and universities of the N.C.A.A. Saturday, strikes mainly at wholesale recruiting practices.

The code stipulates:

1. Financial aid may be granted to athletes only on the basis of need and scholarship qualifications for which any student is eligible and only by regular agencies set up by the institution.

2. College representatives cannot offer financial inducements to prospective athletes although they can approach these athletes and outline financial benefits offered to all qualified students.

No tight bounds were placed on alumni groups, which pay the freight for many athletes' education.

The N.C.A.A. set up machinery for enforcing the code and thus for the first time in its history became a regulatory body—a sort of "national conference." Several conferences will be forced to revise their by-laws to conform with the new standards.

ASCOT PARK REQUESTS ADDITIONAL FALL MEET

By The United Press

COLUMBUS, Jan. 12—The Ohio State Racing commission today considered a request from Ascot Park race track, Akron, for an additional 19-day meet from Sept. 18 to Oct. 4.

The requested dates, however, conflict with the Cranwood racing meet, Cleveland, which will run from Sept. 4 to Sept. 25.

The commission reportedly considered moving forward the Cranwood dates to permit the fall racing dates at Ascot, which already obtained June 5 to June 26 for a spring meet from the commission.

By Brush-Moore News Service

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 12—Cecil Travis, for 15 years a member of the Washington Senators baseball team, is ready today to quit baseball. FOOTBALL COACHES TO SURVEY RULES

Urged To Adopt Uniform Code for All Teams.

By The United Press

SAVANNAH, Ga., Jan. 12—Football coaches who will meet here tomorrow to give the rules of the game a streamlined "new look" were urged today by Athletic Director Bill Alexander of Georgia Tech to adopt a uniform code for high schools, colleges and eventually the professionals, while they are at it.

The coaches, members of the Collegiate Rules committee, will be concerned principally with eliminating ambiguities and questions of interpretation in the bulky and complicated collegiate rules layout. They are expected to make some minor changes in the rules, which were recommended last week by the National Collegiate Athletic association, but in the main will be concerned with a job of recodification.

And that was where Alexander's proposal came in. Alexander, a former long time member of the committee, will meet with the coaches in an advisory capacity and it is the standardization of rules which he thinks would be most helpful to players, fans, coaches and officials.

"In some cities an official will be called on to work all three versions of the game in one week-end," Alexander said. "No official has a complete knowledge of all three sets of rules."

He said standardization would make it easier for coaches and players when youths from high schools advanced to college and when collegians go to the pro ranks.

The committee has a recommendation from the National High School Athletic associations for softer padding of protective football equipment. The prep group ended a five-day meeting yesterday at Biloxi, Miss., and voted to send a committee to confer with the collegiate group here.

The colleges also voted for softer padding in their meeting at New York.

OHIO COLLEGE CAGERS FACE BUSIEST WEEK

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 12—One of the heaviest weeks of the campaign faces Ohio's collegiate basketeers the next six days, with 51 games on tap.

Eighteen frays are in the Ohio conference, now paced by Akron's Zippers, who have won four in a row including a startling 59-45 conquest of Toledo's hot Rockets. Twenty games are against out-of-state opponents, an angle of play in which the Buckeye boys have fared well thus far.

Of 120 games with foreign opponents this season, Ohio teams have won 74 while losing 46. On the home floors the Buckeyes have won 55 and lost 21, but out-of-state they have won only 19 and lost 25.

The Wilberforce State club is Ohio's only unbeaten squad among 41 which launched the season six weeks ago. The pace-setters have won four college games, thus two non-collegiate affairs with the Lockbourne Air Base team, to stand alone at the top of the heap. Western Reserve, after winning eight in a row to pace the pack a week ago, was drubbed in two of the last three outings.

Detroit Shipping Clerk Leads Petersen Classic

By The Associated Press

Starr's eight-game total of 1,594 was 31 pins better than the second place score turned in by Leo Bentley of Lorain, O., when the firing ceased early today until the next weekend.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

by Hugh S. Fullerton Jr.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12—Minnesota's Jim Kelly, who spent some time looking over European track talent, brings word that everything won't be beer and skittles for American runners in the Olympic games next summer—in fact, they may not find a skittle anywhere. . . . Without mention no too many names, Jim points out that England and Holland have some good sprinters and hurdlers, Sweden plenty of good distance men—and from what he could see, they're by no means undernourished. . . . In addition Australia likely will check in with a good team and Jamaica, with runners like Herb McKenley and Lloyd Labeach, may pick up a couple of victories. . . . The U. S. will have to look to the relays and field events for most of its victories, says Kelly, who then adds: "It will make the games all the more interesting to have such competition."

WHILE THE football coaches rules committee was in session, Bill Booe, Yale's place-kicking specialist, was asked what he'd do if the point-after-touchdown was legislated out of existence. . . . "Gee," replied Bill, who wouldn't be on the squad if it wasn't for the P.A.T., "I see by today's paper they're not going to do it, but it sure was tough sweating that one out."

Cleveland Browns Sign Halfback Jeff Durkota

By The United Press

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 12—The Cleveland Browns who have been the champions of the All-America football conference during its two-year existence, today added to their backfield strength by signing 23-year-old Jeff Durkota, a wingback on last season's undefeated Penn State team.

Cleveland Coach Paul Brown said that Durkota, who carried the ball 38 times and gained a total of 441 yards for Coach Bob Higgins' Nittany Lions last year, would be used as a halfback. The six-foot 205- pound Colver, Pa., youth was the Browns' first choice in the recent A.A.C. player draft.
